Mrs. Edith Thomas
Turns Up Once More
As Cotton Trader

Washington, Jan. 15—(AP)—The name "Mrs. Edith Thomas" turned up on a new list of 5,651 cotton traders today as senators investigating commodity speculation continued their study of transactions by Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.).

The senator's wife is named Edith. When the same name appeared on a similar list last week Thomas said his wife has her own money and trades in commodities. He said he, too, has dealt in stocks and commodities but has never used any "inside" government information.

Mrs. Thomas declined to comment. Later Thomas furnished a senate appropriations subcommittee headed by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) with a memorandum of his own trading.

Reveal Rose's Record
Asked by newsmen today whether the committee will invite Thomas to appear as a witness, Ferguson replied: "All I can say is that we are studying the memorandum."

The committee made public late yesterday the record of its closed door investigation of trading by John Kerr Rose, a Library of Congress employee who helped write a world food report for the special house committee on foreign aid headed by Rep. Herter (R-Mass.). Rose said he made a dozen or more transactions in the commodity markets in 1917, most of them in oats futures, and he said he suffered a net loss of $1,711.75.

William Vandell Elliott, staff director for the Herter committee, testified at the same session that Rose had access to all the information congress could obtain on the food picture and saw some of it "even before congress could see it."

Elliott told newsmen some of this information was classified as confidential.

No Inside Information
But Rose said there is a difference between confidential and inside information. In the latter class, he said, he would put such information as government crop estimates and data on purchasing programs.

"Neither of these is available to me," he said. "I have not had them or tried to get them, nor would I have used them."

His report on the world food outlook, he testified, "is not by any stretch of the imagination inside information."

He said he suffered "substantial, not ruinous" losses by buying oats futures on the "short" side, mistakenly expecting that the market would go down.

His only 1917 wheat transaction, he continued, was the purchase and sale within about two hours' time last Sept. 20 of 1,000 bushels of wheat futures. He said he made a profit of $37 on it. He added that he would have made about $800 if he had held it until the present.

New List for Oct. 15-18
The new list of cotton traders made public by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson contained the names of 5,651 persons and firms who were active in the market Oct. 15-18, 1916, a period marked by a sharp price break.

"Mrs. Edith Thomas" of Washington, D. C., was reported in the new list to have held a speculative position of 300 bales "long" on the same position as the same position. The person with this name was reported to have held on July 31, 1916, the date covered by the previous cotton list. "Long" spec-

Only one of 80 passengers aboard the Hummingbird, fast northbound passenger train of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, was injured seriously enough to require a physician when the train hit the rear of a freight train near Wales,

Reopening of Air
Strip Strengthens
Middle East Policy

Move Fits In With Efforts to Bolster Prestige in Mediterranean Area

Washington, Jan. 15—(AP)—The reopening of a wartime American air field in North Africa fits into a strategy of expanding American strength in the turbulent Mediterranean area where Greece, Palestine and Trieste are focal spots for trouble.

The field, Mellaha air port, near Tripoli, is calculated to increase substantially the ability of the air force to operate the North African ferry route to the Middle East and keep American supplies and key personnel moving in and out of the troubled areas.

Beyond that, however, the move shaped up as the latest in a series symbolizing the intention of the United States to make good its commitments and to protect its interests in that part of the world which probably is getting more official attention here than any other.

The trend of developing policy was disclosed in a state department report last night on the status of the North African air field since the war ended.

Cabin Cruiser, with Two Aboard, Adrift

Miami, Fla., Jan. 15—(AP)—A flotilla of planes from the Coast Guard, augmented by Army and Navy reserve units, searched the waters south of Miami today for the 30-foot cabin cruiser, Jo Ann, adrift about 20 miles south of Carys Fort Reef light with two men aboard.

The men were identified as Eric Larsen, 52, of New York and Miami, and Lawrence Farley, 30, of Mattapoisett, Mass. They had enough food and water for three days but no radio and "possibly a little fuel," according to Lt. Comdr. Richard G. Baxter, Coast Guard operations officer.

The Jo Ann has a white hull and buff deck, making it extremely difficult to spot on the "exceedingly rough" water. Baxter said, "Small craft warnings remained up in the area."

The Jo Ann was cast adrift late Tuesday when a tow line from the 36-foot yacht, Coconut, parted in rough seas while enroute from Cuba to Miami. The Coconut made port yesterday.

Passengers aboard the Coconut included Windsor T. White, founder and former president of the White Truck Company of Cleveland, Ohio.

Tenn., shortly before midnight.

At New York's LaGuardia Field 29 passengers bound for Havana settled safely when a Constellation air liner of Venezuelan Airlines returned to the field. The pilot reported one of the plane's engines became overheated and landing gear difficulty had occurred.

Another emergency landing was made at Nassau after a DC-4 plane reported an engine fire while enroute from San Juan, Puerto Rico, to Jacksonville, Fla. Only the pilot and the co-pilot were aboard, the Coast Guard said.

Meanwhile, at Wykes, Que., far in Quebec's frozen northland, unofficial estimates of the dead from the crash of two west-bound passenger trains yesterday ran as high as 20. At least nine persons were known to be dead and 55 injured.

der Trial Today

Rockford Ill., Jan. 15—(AP)—Love letters exchanged between Mrs. Catherine (Kit) Anderson and Glenn Marsh were introduced yesterday at Marsh's trial for the slaying of Mrs. Anderson's husband and father last Nov. 7.

State's Attorney Max A. Weston introduced one letter written by Marsh to Mrs. Anderson a few days before the shootings in which he said Marsh wrote in reference to the woman's husband:

"I was so mad I think I would have killed him had he been handy."

Killed in the shooting fray were Vernon Anderson, 28, the husband, and Grant Muhlen, 52, of Northport, Mich., Mrs. Anderson's father.

The prosecutor said the letter was written by Marsh while Mrs. Anderson was visiting in Northport. Earlier in the day, Mrs. Anderson had testified she had gone to Michigan "to get away for a while because of a situation that had come about—the fact that I had fallen in love with Glenn Marsh."

Husband "Seemed Content"
Weston said the letter, introduced for the first time in the case, made references to a talk between Marsh and Anderson in which Marsh wrote that Anderson "seemed content nothing was wrong" between Marsh and Mrs. Anderson. The letter said when the discussion was all over Anderson "said he could see my views but disagreed with them and what he thought you (Mrs. Anderson) needed was someone to take hold and pound some sense in you."

This was followed by a passage which said, "heaven help him if he ever touches you and I find out about it."

Addressed to "Kit Darling," Marsh wrote:

TODAY'S WEATHER STORY
(By The Associated Press)
Winter's icy blasts chilled the eastern half of the country today, and as freezing weather lingered in the south the mercury dropped to 5 to 10 below zero in the north and to 10 to 15 below in the south.

While the south shivered in the abnormal temperatures and many were faced with shortages of fuel, a fresh cold wave howled across the Dakotas and headed into other sections of the midwest. In the east, the mercury dipped to below zero in New York state.

Low early morning readings included 16 at Macon, Ga., 17 at Nashville, Tenn., 18 at Charleston, S. C., and 40 at New Orleans, La.

Near blizzard conditions were forecast for most of the Dakotas today with sharp drops in temperature, 30 to 40 miles per hour north winds and light snow. Similar blustery cold weather was forecast for other sections of the north central region tonight. In Dickinson, N. D., today the mercury dropped from 25 to 9 above; one hour as strong winds whipped the newly-fallen snow into small drifts.

Los Angeles' 80 was high across the nation yesterday.

Taft-Hartley Law
Will Work Against
Petrillo — Hartley

Washington Jan. 15—(AP)—A right-to-work amendment of the Taft-Hartley law to restrict activities of James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, was proposed today by Rep. Gwinn (R-N.Y.).

Gwinn suggested the amendment at a house labor committee hearing as a "cure" for Petrillo's various bans on the use of "live" music in television and on phonograph record making.

It would provide, he said, that "no monopoly or organization could tell a man where or when he should work or otherwise control, fine or suspend him except possibly for non-payment of dues."

The committee is investigating charges that Petrillo holds a "monopoly" on commercial music.

Chairman Hartley (R-N.J.) said in advance of the hearing he thought the Taft-Hartley law would work against Petrillo but, if necessary, he favored changing it to make sure. Hartley was commenting on Petrillo's acquittal on charges of violating the Lea Act, a law aimed specifically at the union's leaders' practices.

F-M Inventor Witness
Edwin H. Armstrong of Columbia university, self-styled inventor of the frequency-modulation systems of broadcasting, told the committee today that Petrillo's edicts against "live" music represents the "last obstacle" in his 12-year struggle to bring FM before the public. He said:

"I have been at loss to account for the hostility of the FM system, particularly on behalf of the American Federation of Musicians, as I have always looked upon it not only as a great boon to the musicians' art but as the creator of new opportunities for employment for musicians."

"But there is no live music available for FM chains at any price." Congress passed the Lea Act expressly to prevent Petrillo from requiring radio stations to employ more members of his American Federation of Musicians than the stations say they need.

Federal Judge J. Walter La Bay acquitted Petrillo in Chicago yesterday of a charge that he violated the act by trying to force a radio station to hire three extra phonograph record librarians.

Petrillo's lawyer, Daniel Carmell, said the decision means that "the Lea Act is dead."

Hartley commented to newsmen today:

Amendment Might Help
"If the Lea Act isn't adequate to prevent featherbedding and the Taft-Hartley Act isn't clear enough for radio stations to use it for a test, then we need something to clarify the situation." He said this might take the form of an amendment making unions liable under anti-trust laws.

Hartley said, however, that he thinks the new labor act which bears his name and that of Senator Taft (R-Ohio) is broad enough to cover the musicians' dispute.

One section of the Taft-Hartley Act says it is an unfair labor practice for a union to make an employer pay, or try to make him pay, "for services which are not

Fugitive Wanted in Rock Island Caught

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 15—(AP)—Nathaniel Harris, 25-year-old Negro wanted in Rock Island, Ill., on federal kidnapping and car theft charges was arrested yesterday without a cent in his pocket, the Federal Bureau of Investigation announced.

Harry T. O'Connor, agent in charge of the Detroit FBI, said Harris was recognized as he sought mail under his own name at a general delivery window of the downtown postoffice.

According to O'Connor Harris was one of three men accused in warrants abducting Harry Fischer at the point of a gun in Rock Island, last Dec. 2.

Fischer was forced to accompany the trio, all Negroes, while they held up a tavern in Rock Island. A patron, a Sterling man, of the tavern was shot. He then was driven to Bettendorf, Ia., where he was released unharmed early Dec. 3.

O'Connor said William Roger Price, Jr., and Columbus Williams were arrested Dec. 5 at Davenport, Ia., on car theft and Lindbergh kidnap law warrants. The FBI officer quoted Harris as saying his share of the loot in the robbery was only $20 and he said the fugitive was broke when apprehended.

Harris will be returned to Rock Island, O'Connor said.

Truman Income Tax Plan Shelved for Knutson Proposal

Democrats Unenthused Over President's Scheme to Slice Levies $40

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—Republicans today patted a "file and forget" tag on President Truman's proposal for a "cost of living" cut in income taxes balanced by a new excess profits levy on corporations.

With even key congressional Democrats showing little enthusiasm for the White House plan, the majority leadership signaled instead for action on a measure by Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.) to reduce income taxes $5,600,000,000 a year, mainly on a percentage basis.

The house ways and means committee which Knutson needs was summoned to take up his bill tomorrow. Secretary of the Treasury Snyder was invited as the first witness.

The president's proposal went before congress late yesterday after he conferred at the White House with Reps. Doughton (D-NC), Cooper (D-Tenn.) and Dingell (D-Mich.), all members of the ways and means committee.

George Has No Comment
Senator George (D-Ga.), Democratic leader on tax legislation in the senate, said "no comment" when asked what he thought of it.

The measure would:

1. Give each taxpayer a flat $10 a year reduction for himself and each dependent dated back to Jan. 1. Thus a man with a wife and two children would pay $160 less in 1948. This would remove 10,300,000 persons from the tax rolls and reduce the taxes of 41,200,000 others.

2. Recoup the $3,200,000,000 loss of federal revenue by a new 75 per cent excess profits tax on corporations.

Dingell said he would offer the Truman proposal as a substitute when the ways and means committee votes on Knutson's bill early next week. One Democrat said privately he doubts that more than half of the ten Democrats

"Truth Serum" Test
Is Given Jake Bird

Walla Walla, Wash., Jan. 15—(AP)—An Evanston, Ill., detective watched Jake Bird undergo a "truth serum" test at the state prison and said today he was "particularly well satisfied" that the 16-year-old condemned slayer was involved in the Galvin murder case.

Bird, who appeared unconcerned when told he had received a 60-day reprieve from execution, will be questioned further without the use of drugs.

Bird was scheduled to be hanged Friday for the axe slaying of Mrs. Bertha Kludt of Tacoma, Wash. He has said he was involved in or could clear up 44 murders throughout the country committed over a 20-year period. One of these was the robbery-killing of Mrs. Lillian Galvin, 42, wife of a wealthy Chicago radio manufacturer, and her maid, Edna Shilski, in Evanston in October, 1912.

Harry Engstrom, acting chief of Evanston detectives, was present last night as Patrick M. Steele, Pierce county prosecutor, and a Seattle psychiatrist, who asked anonymity, gave Bird the serum examination. News that Gov. Mon C. Wallgren had issued a reprieve was withheld from the convict until after the questioning.

Steele said the Negro gave a detailed description of the Galvin home and surroundings.

"Feed People, Not Rats" Is Slogan Everywhere Except in Casper, Wyo.

Washington, Jan. 15—(AP)—A national campaign was started today to kill off this nation's rats—everywhere except in Casper, Wyo.

The cat is to save food. A rat eats more than he should, and he wastes almost as much as he eats. In short, a rat is embarrassingly like a human.

So rat-killing information and rat-killing teams will go into every city of 10,000 or over. Every city, that is, but Casper.

Why spurn Casper. The answer is simple. No rats.

Or, anyway, not enough to get all worked up about. But for the rest of us who don't live in Casper, the outlook isn't good.

Crowds Watch Deer
Struggle in River

(Telegraph Special Service)

Oregon, Jan. 15—Scores of people gathered on the banks of Rock river this morning to helplessly watch the efforts of a big buck deer to escape a watery death in the cold water after he had broken through the ice. The animal's struggles to get on the ice constantly increased the size of the hole in it.

A call was put in for state conservation agent Paul Beebe of Foreston and Jeff H. Smith of Mount Morris who is connected with the conservation department, and their arrival was being awaited at noon.

Later in the day the two men with the aid of a boat which they pushed out onto the ice, towed the animal to shore, but it was so exhausted from its struggles it was necessary to destroy it.

Strong Army No
Substitute for Aid
Plan, Two Say

Washington, Jan. 15—(AP)—Two of the nation's top defense chiefs told congress today that substituting a strong United States armed force for the European recovery plan would be only an armed armistice and may mean drafting men for military service.

Senate and house committees conducting hearings on the proposed Marshall plan for aid to Europe heard:

1. Secretary of the Army Royal testify before the senate foreign relations committee that the alternative to the recovery plan is "going back to the draft" unless means can be found to increase voluntary enlistments not now "producing the manpower we need."

2. Secretary of Defense Forrestal tell the house foreign affairs committee that creation of a strong defense force would be a "fallacious" substitute for the aid program and would mean only an "armed armistice."

Forrestal said such a move would fail to accomplish the objectives of international economic restoration and stability and that its cost might approximate $17,000,000,000 annually compared with a current national defense budget of $11,000,000,000.

Would Deny Security
"Creating this power would involve mobilization of so much of our money and manpower as to deny ourselves economic security," Forrestal said. He emphasized that the objective of the aid program "is the prevention of war" and should not be considered "a threat against any nation."

The administration is asking $6,800,000,000 for the first 15 months of the recovery program. The army secretary testified yesterday that unless the recovery

In the first place, we're outnumbered. There's one city rat for every city resident, and two country rats for every person living in rural areas.

Out of every 100 bushels of grain grown in the U. S., four go to the rats. This means that 200,000,000 bushels of grain is eaten or wasted annually by rats, or approximately half of what we are shipping to Europe.

Crowded Courtroom Listens to First Testimony in $50,000 Suit

Mrs. Dorothy Stevens, 41, was scheduled to undergo cross-examination at 1:15 p. m. today when the jury trial of her $50,000 breach of promise suit against William Nixon was resumed in Lee county circuit court before Judge George C. Dixon.

Her attorney, Ralph Eaton, Mt. Carroll, surprised a capacity throng of courtroom spectators by resting her case after she made a brief appearance in the witness chair at 11:30 a. m. Judge Dixon called a recess at 11:35 a. m.

Eaton asked for, and received, permission to have Mrs. Stevens testify from a chair at the foot of the witness stand because, he said, a leg injury would make it difficult for her to get onto the stand. She walked with aid of a cane.

She testified only that she was 41, single, had been single on April 1, 1947 and since then, and that she had agreed to a settlement offer which Nixon allegedly made last summer.

Statistics Introduced
Eaton also introduced statistics, the Wigglesworth life expectancy table, showing the life expectancy of a woman 41 years old to be slightly more than 25 years.

This morning's session, during which Attorney John P. Devine occupied the witness chair the major part of the time, was marked by the repeated objections of the defense to Devine's testimony, during which the jury was twice excused from the courtroom.

Other witnesses taking the stand this morning were Nixon, first to appear, called by Eaton for adverse examination, and L. G. Welch, real estate broker.

Nixon denied under questioning by Eaton that he had said he did not intend to marry Mrs. Stevens during a talk with Devine last summer, and also denied he asked Devine what settlement she wanted or that he asked Devine to find out about a settlement.

Second Devine Appearance
He is charged with proposing to pay her $100 monthly and providing a residence for her rent-free, but with refusing to sign a written agreement containing those stipulations.

College Students Pay It Back, Loan Units Can Tell You

Schools Call Loans Big Investment in Human Character

BY HAL BOYLE
New York—(AP)—Notes on a changing world:

If paying bills is a sign of character then college kids have plenty.

Most large schools now have special loan funds to help students in straightened circumstances finish their education. Since 1913 the University of Missouri has advanced $1,018,499 to more than 8,300 students, and is vice president, Leslie Cowan, says that only $5,500 has had to be written off as lost.

The students have paid back the loans 99 1/2 cents on every dollar. "Although conducted on a strictly business basis these loans to students are really investments in human character", Cowan said.

Last year one wealthy graduate who had borrowed from the loan fund as a student showed his gratitude by contributing $100,000 to the fund.

Still Not Enough
Continuing our explorations into the academic life, we report that a housing survey by the city college school of business here came up with this interesting conclusion:

Of the landlords interviewed 75 per cent said they preferred college instructors as tenants because of their "restrained type of living, their stable intelligent associates and their tendency toward care and respect of living quarters".

This was all flattering to professional vanity—but the survey still failed to locate enough apartments to care for the teaching staff.

There is a shortage of ivory towers, too.

One unusual impact on Manhattan made by the recent record snowfall: It even crowded the class struggle out of the headlines of the "Daily Worker", Communist newspaper.

Three days after the big snowfall the paper bannered: "6-inch Snow Due Today".

(P. S.—It didn't arrive. You can't even count on the weather in a capitalistic country).

Fake Money Rings Booming Again in the United States

Washington—(AP)—The old counterfeit racket, which boomed in the depression 30s and almost disappeared during the war, started to boom again during the last year.

More than 2 1/2 million dollars in counterfeit currency was confiscated by the secret service in the last four months. In 1937, a year of considerable activity by bogus money passers, confiscations totaled $731,000. In war time 1944 they dropped to $47,000.

While counterfeiting operations apparently have not been as numerous as in the depression, they have been running on a bigger scale. Secret service agents got more than 2 million dollars in fake money in one haul near Marseille, France, last September—the largest single seizure in more than 25 years.

Public Help Sought
Secret Service Chief John J. Maloney, who fears a continued increase in counterfeiting, urged the public to help the service combat counterfeiters by exerting special efforts to detect bad money.

"We know there recently has been considerable purchase of materials which can be used for making counterfeit money," Maloney said. "Until a short time ago these materials were very hard to get because of war time restrictions."

"We also know many inveterate counterfeiters who had lucrative jobs in war industries have lost their jobs in war industries and are returning to counterfeiting," he added.

Huge Amounts Made Abroad
Maloney said the assistance of bankers, local police officers, school boards, and others is invaluable in educating potential counterfeit victims. In the late '30s and early '40s, the public helped the service decrease the number of persons victimized by counterfeit passers by 97 per cent.

Much of the counterfeit United States money appearing in this country since the war has been made abroad. Secret service agents, with the co-operation of the French police, arrested 11 European members of the Marseille gang and seized $1,145,200 in $5, $10, $20 and $100 bills.

Chicago Ring Seized

A big counterfeit haul in this country took place in Chicago early in December, when the secret service announced it had broken up the largest ring to operate in that area since 1934. Some $425,000 in spurious currency was seized and five men were arrested.

About the year 1010, the Vikings established a lumber camp on the coast of North America, probably in Labrador and maintained it for three years.

January Typhoon is Headed for No. Luzon

Manila, Jan. 15—(AP)—A January typhoon, a rarity in this area, was moving toward the central Philippines today, while in the mountain city of Baguio children marvelled at another unfamiliar sight—frost.

Baguio, mile-high city of northern Luzon, recorded a temperature of 28 degrees Fahrenheit Wednesday morning. Gleeeful youngsters were scooping frost from the earth in great excitement.

U.S. farmers now own over two million trucks, twice as many as they owned in 1940.

Elks Scholarships
Will Go to 90 to 100
U. S. Students in '48

Awards Range From $300
To $1,000 Over 48
States, Reveal

Between 90 and 100 college scholarship awards, ranging from a minimum of $300 to a maximum of $1,000, will be made by B.P.O. Elks to American boys and girls during 1948, according to word received this week by Lloyd A. Phelps, exalted ruler of Dixon Lodge No. 779, from Lafayette A. Lewis, Los Angeles attorney, who is Grand Exalted Ruler of the order.

The eagerly-sought scholarships are available, without regard to race or religion, to high school seniors in all 48 states and to those boys and girls already college underclass students, and the recipient has the right of selection of college.

A subsidiary of the Grand Lodge of Elks, known as the Elks National Foundation, with offices at 16 Court street, Boston, Mass., directs the award of college scholarships, just as it does other Foundation activities including aid for crippled children, tubercular hospitals and children's homes and camps. More than $270,000 has been disbursed by the foundation since it was established in 1928. All Elks state associations, most of the 1,475 local Elks lodges and many of the 900,000 members of the Order have become contributors toward the Foundation's goal of a $20,000,000 eventual fund.

Seven former Grand Exalted Rulers comprise the Foundation's board of trustees. The chairman is a Boston attorney, John F. Malley. Raymond Benjamin, of Westport, Conn., is vice-chairman; U. S. Judge Murray Hubert of New York is treasurer, and Floyd E. Thompson, of Chicago, is secretary. Other trustees are Edward Rightor of New Orleans, Charles H. Grakelow of Philadelphia and Dr. Robert S. Barrett of Alexandria, Va.

Up to March 1, 1948, boys and girls may file their applications for the Elks scholarships. The only form needed is a blank captioned "Memorandum of Required Facts," which may be obtained from the Foundation's Boston headquarters and usually from local lodges of Elks and from high school principals. Supporting data to be attached to the blank include recent photograph; 300-word autobiography by the applicant; 200-word letter from the parent indicating family situation and need of financial assistance; record of school courses taken and marks, signed by the principal or other school authority; letter of recommendation from school authority; two or three letters of endorsement from non-relatives; and letter from exalted ruler of the Elks lodge in the home town of the applicant.

The application and attached documents are filed with the secretary of the state Elks association of the applicant's home state, and some of the boys and girls will win $300 scholarship awards from these state associations on allocations from the Foundation. Those with the highest ratings will be adjudged by the Foundation for national consideration and special scholarship awards. These country-wide plums total another $8,000 this year, consisting of $4,000 for boys and $4,000 for girls, as follows: first award, $700; second, $600; third, $500, fourth, $400; fifth, $300; five of $200 each and five of $100 each.

Last year's top Elks scholarships were won by James D. Hembree, Jr., of Muskogee, Okla., and Miss Mary S. Firra, of Herkimer, N. Y. The main criteria of Elks awards are scholarship, citizenship, personality, leadership, perseverance, resourcefulness, patriotism and general worthiness.

Single Man is Poorest
Credit Risk Now, Show

Chicago, Jan. 15 — (AP) — A sociology student claimed today results of a survey of installment buyers indicated that the single man is not as good a credit risk as married persons and single girls.

Erwin L. Linn, a postgraduate student at the University of Chicago, said in an article in the American Journal of Sociology that he had reached this conclusion after studying the arrears in 20,000 installment accounts six months after purchases were made in 1941.

Linn said his study indicated that home owners were usually the best installment credit risks.

He said that single girls were better risks than single men because of "greater regulation of living or a more rigid adherence to a norm which makes the paying of bills more likely".

Own "Marshall Plan"

Warsaw, Poland, Jan. 15 — (AP) — Diplomatic sources said today Soviet Russia may propose to form her own emergency relief program for countries within her orbit in opposition to the Marshall plan at Polish-Russian conferences opening in Moscow tonight or tomorrow.

The informants base this speculation upon the Soviet advances of loans and grain to eastern European countries since their rejection of the invitation to participate in the Marshall plan conferences.

A Thought for Today
For the wind passeth over it, and it is gone; and the place thereof shall know it no more.—Psalms 103:16.

The life given us by nature is short; but the memory of a well-spent life is eternal.— Cicero.

First Hundred Years
One hundred years ago this month Karl Marx, a 29-year-old German radical, and his collaborator, Friedrich Engels, who was two years younger, issued their famous "Communist Manifesto".
In the century that followed the Marxian brand of socialism took an increasingly sharp turn away from the other, socialist forms to wind up, in a scarcely recognizable form, as the basis of the present Russia government.

The broad design of Marx's political and economic blueprint though it doesn't all appear in the Manifesto—was this. There would have to be world revolution, with the exploited peasants and workers starting from scratch and building anew. For a short time a "dictatorship of the proletariat" would be necessary, until opposition was crushed
and difficulties solved.

After that there was to be a classless, frictionless society, a Utopia in which each would contribute to the common good according to his abilities and receive according to his need. There would be no war, no exploitation, no bitterness. Everybody would be happy and content.

Almost 70 years after the Manifesto appeared, a group of Communists got their chance to put the Marxian theory to the test in the vast, backward, war-torn Russian Empire. Their leader was a man who called himself Vladimir Lenin, and whose interpretation of the gospel according to Marx got him into some bitter fights with fellow Communists.

When Lenin died he was succeeded by a man who called himself Josef Stalin. And if Lenin's communism departed somewhat from Marx's, Stalin's is not quite the brand that Lenin introduced.
Lenin was a revolutionist, not an imperialist. Stalin may be a revolutionist, too. But he has been biding his postwar time by gobbling up surrounding countries with a speed that has given the whole world indigestion.

Moreover, Lenin and Stalin have one thing in common. They have failed in 30 years of trying, to build anything like the Utopia that Marx dreamed of. They have not achieved world revolution. Their dictatorship is not of the proletariat, but of an iron-banded clique which rules over voiceless proletarian millions.

Russian communism admittedly has failed to gain the ideal of contribution according to ability and reward according to need. It has built instead a rigidly classed society, with great inequalities in

As Pegler Sees It

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

To some it may seem that the admission to citizenship of just one Belgian refugee is too small an issue to justify a long discussion of his moral character and his political activities.

However, the case of Isidore Lipschutz, a rich Belgian diamond merchant with a record of meddling in American affairs through a privately operated secret service, is one of unusual importance.

I have tried to suggest the impudence of this alien's intrusion into the politics of the United States and of his efforts to direct our policy toward the conquered Germans through the Society for the Prevention of World War III.
Naturally he would hate Hitlerism with special bitterness, although the comfortable resignation of many such refugees to a distant, passive part in Hitler's defeat is still noteworthy. His concern lest the German nation should rise again can be understood. Many Americans concluded years ago that, by starting a second World war in 25 years, the German people had forfeited their right to nationality. Some still think so, but others now believe it would be good for us that Germany should be revived and retrained for a possible ally in case of war with the Soviet Union. The Germans might take Russia's side in revenge for two linkings which were made certain by the degrading power of the United States. However, that is a chance we would have to take. Should we abandon them to primitive depravity, then surely the Russians could count on them.

Many Americans have an idealistic belief that the Morgenthau plan for the industrial devastation of Germany and the indiscriminate degradation of the German people is infamous and particularly un-Christian.

The Society for the Prevention of World War III, a letterhead bund, abuses those who hold such beliefs. This is unseemly in an alien refugee among us.

The Society for the Prevention of World War III is an amalgam of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League of which Lipschutz has been vice-president, treasurer and financial backer for several years.

the matter of money, food, clothing, and general comfort.

But, with promises and five-year plans, the Russian leaders keep striving for Utopia. They are going to make everybody happy, no matter how many people
they have to kill, imprison or ter-rorize in the process.

If Marx from some other world,
can see the results of his handiwork, he must be a little disappointed. For he sees his ideas perverted by men devoid of conscience, narrow of mind, limited of learning and unsure of policy.

The ghostly father of communism may suspect, perhaps, that those decadent democrats like Ben Franklin, Tom Paine and Tom Jefferson had a more practical idea, after all. And he must wonder if the first hundred years, difficult as they have been, are really the hardest.

Both the League and the Friends of Democracy, a similar organization, maintain espionage outfits employing frightened sneaks who are demonstrable liars or, by their own admission, unscrupulous be-trayers of trust and thieves.

Some persons prominent in both of these espionage outfits are likewise prominent in the Society for the Prevention, which, however, does not appear to have any secret police of its own. Contributions to all three are deductible from taxable income on the pretense that they are "educational".
Thus the taxpayers of the United States were mulcted for some portion of the expense of maintaining two forces of keyhole and dictaphone detectives to spy on their own intimacy in the interest of an impertinent refugee.
The potential usefulness of secret information gathered by unofficial and unregulated detective agencies is easily conjured by anyone familiar with the subject.

In a time brochure entitled "The Smear Terror," John T. Flynn, a great crusader of American journalism, epitomized the objection to such spying.

"We have never dreamed of permitting the government to use its police secret or otherwise, as an instrument of political controversy," he wrote. "To suppose that we can permit private gestapos to operate is abhorrent to our system of life."

His totalitarian enemies tried to suppress him, but "The Smear Terror" has had a sale, by mail-order alone, which is a tedious method, exceeding that of any other recent political pamphlet not subsidized by any organization. It sells at 25 cents a copy and the price declines on a sliding scale to 10 cents in lots of 1,000. His address is 15
East 40th street, New York.

Flynn tells the shocking story of the campaign of fifth wailing against Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, in his last primacy.
Wheeler was recognized even by the Roosevelt party as a great liberal until he opposed this nation's involvement in the late war.
Thereafter, he was abused as a Hitlerite and thousands of dollars poured into remote Montana from New York and Hollywood. The chief contributors were individuals devoted to the proposition that American young men must obliterate the German nation.

The house committee on un-American activities and the senate committee on war expenditures both investigated Lipschutz and his two organizations, the League and the Society. Many fellow-travelers and some, more or less, recognized Communists were discovered, but neither group was listed as definitely Communist.

Lipschutz claims to have paid
the treasury more than $1,000,000 in taxes and to own $200,000 in treasury bonds. He is reported to have supported financially the late Sidney Hillman's Political Action Committee, which was then used by the Communists as their political vehicle. A document in the files of the immigration service said "obstacles" had been placed in the path of the immigration inquiry.

An unusual remark occurs in the body of one such report.
"Instructions have been issued by the immigration service that Mr. (Charles) Coppins is not to be interviewed by the U. S. consular service in connection with this matter because that would violate the public policy of the state department," it said.

Coppins is the husband of the middle-aged woman with whom it is alleged that Lipschutz carried on immoral relations. Coppins did make a short visit to the United States, but the immigration service did not know he was here until he had gone back to Belgium. His wife is still here. Lipschutz sees her privately and makes trips with her and they occupy adjoining rooms, according to the trial evidence. Still Judge Edward A. Conger decided, arbitrarily, that Lipschutz had proved good moral character, and gave him citizenship.

MURDER AT MY HOUSE

By Rene Ryerson Mart Copyright by NEA SERVICE, INC.

XXX
A MAN's love is a curious thing.
It can possess him absolutely for moments. But it can never possess him altogether. It is never as strong in him as the urge to action, the challenge to combat which his work affords him.

And so Bob, who a moment before had been conscious only of his love for me, could now forget me completely. Forget me so that even his thought for my safety was an afterthought. All his facilities, all his desire, all his driving energy were focused now on solving this case.

Meekly I got my things and followed him out to the police cruiser.
We went down Sunset to La Brea and turned right. He had a bachelor apartment, just a living room, bedroom, bath and a kitchenette of sorts in an alcove. He took me in and showed me around and said he thought I'd be comfortable.

"Lock the door when I leave,"
he said. "And don't let anyone in until I come back."

That was hours later. After midnight—nearly one o'clock. In the meantime I had foraged in his ice box and found a chop and the makings of a salad and had napped fitfully on the wide studio couch in his living room. But mostly I had just sat and smoked and listened for his return and thought about him. The way his black hair swept up and back from his forehead, the way his gray eyes could be hard as steel or as gentle and soft as a kitten. And the way his voice changed when he said my name, becoming at once deeper and intimate and warm.

I heard his footsteps at last and knew them even before he pressed the door buzzer. I sprang up and smiled at the door and let him in.
He looked tired but triumphant.
He looked at me and he smiled.
His grin was a cocky, self-satisfied thing—as if he had done it.

all by himself. "You were right,"
he said. "Right on every score.
Now—if she'll only fall into our trap."

He threw his hat at a table and sat down and I got a cigaret and put it between his lips and lit it for him and sat down on the arm of his chair. I smoothed his rumpled hair. He looked up at me still grinning and asked,
"Haven't you been in bed? It's late."

I shook my head. "No—I was waiting up for you."

He made the usual gesture then about sleeping on the couch in the living room while I used the bedroom and I said: "Nonsense.
Neither of us can sleep tonight—
and you know it."

He nodded. "I guess you're right. What about eating, then?
I'm famished."

So I made coffee and Bob fried bacon and eggs and sliced pickles and onions and made some huge sandwiches and we ate and smoked and talked. We talked a lot about the case and about everything that had happened so far and about what we were praying would happen in the morning
when we sprang our trap.

But we talked about ourselves,
too. Bob told me how he had felt when he came back to consciousness in that hospital in France and found that his right hand was hopelessly mangled. "They told me that they could graft skin and make it look all right, but it wouldn't be much use to me."
"Look all right—the devil with that. What I had to do was paint with it. Paint the great, the poignant, the immortal pictures of World War II. All those hundreds of sketches I'd been making ever since I got in the Army, sketches of battles and men I'd seen. Made them on the spot so I'd never forget. . . . And then they told me I'd never paint again."

"THERE was only one thing I wanted to do then and that was to go back there and get a bullet in some place more vital than a man's right hand. But, of course, they wouldn't send me back into active service."

There happened to be one doctor in that hospital who had some sense. He saw what was happening to me. He knew if I didn't get action of some kind I'd go insane.

"He had influence and he pulled strings and had me transferred to Intelligence. I could speak Italian pretty well; I'd grown up in an Italian part of our town. So they sent me down to Italy. My job was to find out from the civilians and the priests, non-combatants like that, what had happened to the airmen who were shot down behind the German and Italian lines. If they died when they crashed or if they lived and were hung or shot or tortured and if so who was responsible. I guess I was pretty good at it."

"I worked with another officer who had been on the Los Angeles police force here before the war.
He told me to hunt him up after I got back if I ever wanted a police job—and here I am."

Daylight came and the hands of my watch crept around to seven o'clock. We had to break it up.
Bob reached across the table and touched one of my cold hands.
"Nervous?"

"What do you think?"
He smiled at me. Smiled deep into my eyes. He tried to pour courage into me. "Don't be." He said softly. "I've got a hunch it's going to work."

I tried to smile, too, but my lips were stiff. "What are your hunches worth?"

"They're worth a million dollars apiece. For instance, I had a hunch I was going to fall for you the first moment I saw you. I couldn't get you out of my head."
I tried to be flippant, too. "And did you?"
Bob came around the table then and took me in his arms and this time he kissed me. And his kisses weren't like cold water running over my lips.

Letters Exchanged

derful letters from you Monday I sure made me happy to know you love me as I do you. If I could only be there to talk in the moonlight with you, sweet-heart.
 "Baby, I will try to be patient and I will love you forever but I hope you make up your mind soon, darling. I want you so badly."
 The letter was signed, "with all my love, Glenn." Weston said Mrs. Anderson, appearing in court dressed in a light blue suit and wearing a black hat, spoke in a barely audible tone of voice as she was questioned by Weston. She was instructed by the court to raise her voice so she could be heard by court attaches and the jury.

Admits Intimacy
 When asked by Weston if she was ever intimate with Marsh the attractive, dark-haired mother of three children replied "Yes."
 During Mrs. Anderson's testimony, Marsh watched her intensely, leaning forward in his chair, nervously twisting his hands.

State's attorney indicated the state's proceedings would be completed today.
 Marsh's attorney, B. J. Knight, told reporters that no decision had yet been made whether he would summon Marsh to the stand.
 When Marsh surrendered to police two days after the shootings, he gave authorities a statement in which he said the slayings stemmed from his fear that his illicit romance with Mrs. Anderson would end.

On the night of the slayings Mrs. Anderson was taken by Marsh on a wild 100-mile automobile flight over northern Illinois roads. When Marsh stopped to seek accommodations for them in a tourist cabin, she fled.

Mrs. Anderson previously had told authorities she and Marsh had discussed seeking divorces to prepare the way for their marriage. But she said the idea was abandoned because she feared losing custody of her children.

Marsh and his wife, Audrey, have two children.
 Mrs. Marsh testified during the trial that her husband had been nervous and ill for several weeks before the slayings.

Price Controls Not Inflation Control, Says Swift Co. Head

Chicago, Jan. 15—(AP)—Re-establishment of rationing and price control over meat would be wasteful and ineffective, John Holmes, president of Swift & Company, meat packers, told shareholders at the company's annual meeting today.
 Holmes said, "the control of meat prices is by no means the same as control of inflation. High meat prices are merely a reflection in the free market of much broader and fundamental causes."
 We need a more fundamental attack upon the inflation problem than setting up an elaborate set of controls to obscure one of its symptoms.
 "We are convinced such controls would be ineffective and would disrupt the flow of meat to consumers. . . . the re-imposition of controls would cause revival of profiteering by illegitimate operators at the consumers' expense."

Cross Denies Plans to Buck Green GOP Slate

Chicago, Jan. 15—(AP)—Li-Gov. Hugh W. Cross, anti-Green Republican candidate for governor of Illinois, denied today any Cross state ticket-making to buck the regular Green-Brooks GOP slate.
 Malachy J. Coghlan, meanwhile, appeared to be the choice of the regular Cook county slatenmakers for state's attorney, but they were split into two camps on formation of the rest of the county ticket.
 Theron Merryman, Chicago alderman and plumbing contractor told reporters he expected to announce tomorrow or Saturday his candidacy for lieutenant governor on a Cross ticket.

Cross however declined to say whether he would support Merryman. Although praising Merryman as "fine and upright," Cross told a reporter: "I am not making up any slate."

Methodist Service Funds Show Increase

Chicago, Jan. 15—(AP)—An increase of 712 per cent in contributions for world-wide missionary and educational work for the first six months of the fiscal year which began June 1, 1947, was announced today by the Methodist church.
 Total receipts were $2,960,328, a gain of $196,676 over the same period last year. In addition to the world service donations, the nation's Methodists gave $324,921 to the Fellowship of Suffering and Service fund during the same period. Through Dec. 31 the Crusade for Christ relief and reconstruction fund took in $26,938,545.

Crump Calls Bluff of Letter, Is Unharmred

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 15—(AP)—Shelby county political leader E. H. Crump last night carried an empty brief case to a location given in a note which, he said, threatened his life, but the anonymous letter-writer did not appear to claim the money.
 The bushy-browed and bespectacled Crump said he had received a note calling for $50,000 to be deposited at a certain street corner or death.

Crump went to the designated spot, but instead of taking cash he said he put in the brief case a note reading:

"To the coward perpetrating this dastardly thing. Anyone could take a white mouse with baby teeth and run you in the Mississippi river."

The veteran politician who is about 72 years old, said the letter was written in the same handwriting as one he received about two years ago.

Truck Driver Freed in Death of Boy, 13

Chicago, Jan. 15—(AP)—Loy-Roberts 29, a truck driver of Bloomington, Ill., was exonerated in felony court today of charges growing out of the death of a hitch rider on Roberts' truck.
 Edward Shipert, 13, of Chicago, suffered fatal injuries Nov. 25 when he fell from the truck at 49th street and Archer avenue.
 The state declined to prosecute a charge of manslaughter and Judge Charles S. Dougherty dismissed charges of not possessing a rear view mirror, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Judge Dougherty took the action when informed a coroner's jury on Jan. 9 decided the death was accidental. Roberts testified at the inquest that the truck, a new vehicle had passed through safety lanes in Bloomington and that he did not see the boy as he wove through heavy traffic.

Soviet Paper Attacks U. S. Air Corps Generals

Moscow, Jan. 15—(AP)—The army newspaper Red Star attacked U. S. air force generals today as "war mongers" in an article which observers said seemed to be in answer to President Truman's air policy commission report.

The commission recommended immediate and substantial enlargement of the U. S. air force for "survival in this air age" and said the U. S. must be made secure against an atom bomb attack by Jan. 1, 1953. The report recommended spending $1,150,000,000 for the air force this year and $1,500,000,000 next year.

Red Star said Lt. Gen. Ira Eaker, chief of the U. S. air staff, and Gen. H. H. Arnold, former chief of the U. S. army air force, had published articles advocating a "preventive war" by using atom bombs.

plan is accepted, the Army and its budget will have to be measurably and immediately increased. Asked how this can be accomplished, Royall said either through an increase in voluntary enlistments, which he said is doubtful, or "some method of selective service."

Marshall Plan or Draft

If we assume that voluntary enlistments have not produced as many men as necessary, that leaves only the draft, Senator Lodge commented.

Royall replied that this is correct.
 In other words, Lodge said, we have the alternative of the European recovery plan, or "else going back to draft."

Royall said this is the "logical conclusion" unless some ways can be found through increased compensation or some other means.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal, meanwhile told the house foreign affairs committee the objective of the recovery program "is the prevention of war" and should not be construed as "a threat against any nation."

Forrestal Appears
 Making his first appearance before a congressional committee on the so-called Marshall plan for the economic rehabilitation of European nations outside the Soviet orbit, Forrestal said:

"Neither this program nor our national defense expenditures are designed as a threat against any nation nor as an effort to restrain any nation or to dominate a group of nations."

Senator Ball (R-Minn) predicted congress will make a "sizeable" cut in the $6,800,000,000 asked by the administration for the first 15 months of operation.

Ball said he thinks most Republican lawmakers share this view despite Secretary of State Marshall's insistence that the amount is a "precision" figure.

WILSON WANTS SELF-HELP

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 15—(AP)—Arnold J. Wilson of LaSalle, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, urged last night that the European aid program be financed through curtailment of government expenditures and that nations assisted be required to start a self-help program.

"I am opposed to the unwise or indiscriminate transmission of large sums of money and large quantities of goods to Europe and elsewhere which will place additional and unwarranted burdens upon our citizens, increase our national debt and impair our domestic economy," he said.

Wilson spoke at a dinner meeting of the Springfield Manufacturers' association.

Dependant Aid to 53,531 Children in December

on the committee will support the president.

House Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas probably will offer the president's plan as a substitute again when the house votes, but some Democrats conceded it will not have a chance then either. Speaker Martin (R-Mass) has predicted a Republican tax bill will pass the house before the end of this month.

Knutson's Measure
 Knutson's measure would remove 7,400,000 low income and elderly persons from the tax polls. It would also:

1. Raise the personal exemption from $500 to $600.

2. Apply to all states the community property principle under which husbands and wives can divide their income equally for tax reporting purposes, thus reducing their tax rates.

3. Grant additional cuts ranging from 30 per cent in the lowest income bracket to 10 per cent in the higher brackets.

Doughon said he wants the community property idea put into the tax law and added: "If I were drawing the tax bill I would want some excises reduced or eliminated, such as those on transportation and telegrams."

House Republican Leader Hallack of Indiana said "Republicans are going to support a tax bill that will be fair and equitable to all and not a vote-catcher aimed at only one group of taxpayers."

Reopening of Air

tions with the British for military rights at Mellaha. Britain administers the former Italian colony of Libya, where the field is situated.

In June last year, the army decided to close down the Air Transport Command facilities there, so the whole question was dropped.

Then, in November, the army decided to reactivate the North Africa ferry route, McDermott related, and the state department was asked again to take up the question of rights with the British. This it did, obtaining permission to reopen the field last month.

American air force headquarters in Wiesbaden, Germany, announced yesterday that the field was being put into service again with a small maintenance staff.

The evidence in Washington is that officials, publicly at least, do not consider the new move to be of great international significance.

Forrestal Says It's Unimportant
 Secretary of Defense Forrestal told a news conference yesterday, for instance, that the field is to be just a way station and has no relation to any system of bases in North Africa.

Such significance as the incident holds was drawn by diplomatic authorities from other recent events affecting the same area.

These include the dispatch of 1,000 Marines with landing equipment to bring to full strength the Marine complement in the American Mediterranean fleet; aid in enlarging the Greek armed forces and other extensive preparations for a spring offensive against the guerrillas; fleet maneuvers in the Mediterranean; and assignment of four big fleet type submarines to Turkey.

When the power politics conflict between Russia and the Western powers was building up at war's end, responsible officials expressed concern that with the defeat of Italy and France and the weakening of Britain, the Mediterranean area was left as a vacuum in which Russia would exert her strength and influence if America did not.

American policy began to take shape more than a year ago with limited and tentative support of Turkey in its resistance to Russian demands for virtual control of the Dardanelles. The Truman doctrine for Greece and Turkey, proclaimed last March, was the next and decisive step.

Since then, the United States has become committed to seeing that the Greeks win the civil war. It has either developed or continued direct or indirect responsibilities in Iran, the Arab world, Palestine, Trieste, Italy and other areas of the central and eastern Mediterranean.

The blast was followed by flames which brought out eight fire companies. Todd Shipyards said the blaze quickly was brought under control and major damage was to the drydock itself.

Todd Shipyards said the cause of the blast still was undetermined.

But, nevertheless, Daniels went his way, and at the end of his term, he took pride in the fact that during World War I, the navy had transported 2,000,000 men abroad in defiance of the U-boat threat without losing a man, and had spent over four billion dollars without being criticized.

Daniels held only one public post in North Carolina, that of state printer in his early manhood. He was clerk of the interior department in Cleveland's administration, secretary of the navy under Wilson, and Franklin Roosevelt's ambassador to Mexico.

He was not officially connected with the Truman administration but in his paper he supported the policies of the president, with whom he was on intimate terms.

JOHNNY SOLID CHOICE

Lujack Voted No. 1 Male Athlete of '47

New York, Jan. 15—(AP)—Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame's All-America quarterback, today was named male athlete-of-the-year for 1947 in the annual Associated Press year-end poll.

The 22-year-old star, winner of the Heisman Memorial trophy and named the standout player of the Jan. 1 East-West Shrine game at San Francisco, drew almost twice as many first place votes from the nation's sports editors as his nearest competitor.

Fifteenth-ranked Lujack was the No. 1 man and eight voted for runner-up Jack Kramer and eight for Joe DiMaggio. On a point basis, with five for first, three for second, and one for third, Lujack piled up 16 credits to 78 for Kramer, the National tennis champ, and 49 for DiMaggio, flashy centerfielder of the World Champion New York Yankees.

Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn's first baseman who was the first Negro to play in the big leagues in modern days, drew considerable support. So did Doak Walker, Southern Methodist's All-America half-back.

But Lujack was the winner by a comfortable margin on the strength of his play for unbeaten, untied Fighting Irish. Honored as a fit successor for such great Notre Dame quarterbacks as Harry Stuhldreher, Frank Carideo and Angelo Bertelli, the modest unassuming senior capped his collegiate career with a brilliant performance at San Francisco on New Year's day.

Bobtales

By BOB FALLSTROM

Yesterday was an example of winter at its worst but it didn't deter "Nig" Knigge from talking softball.

Huddled on the corner of First and Galena, "Nig" and the writer dreamed of summer and another ball season between slivers.

The manager of Lindquist's nine that copped second place last year with an entire team of company personnel vows he'll field a better club when the grass grows green again.

"I'll have a better team if some fellows I've contacted live up to their promises," he said. "But we may not play in the airport league. I may just have an independent outfit."

Thinking about the past season, "Nig" pointed out his boys "weren't so bad but have lots of room for improvement."

OTTEN RUNNING THIRD—Latest point compilations from the National Basketball league show Don Otten, Tri-Cities Blackhawks seven-foot pivotman, in third place with 375 points.

Otto, who is expected to be a prime drawing card here Monday night when the Blackhawks hook up with Sheboygan's Redskins, has improved mightily after a slow start and is now crowding Hal Tildrick of Toledo, credited with 380 counters in 29 games. Both Otten and Tildrick are far off the torrid pace established by George Mikan of Minneapolis, however. Mikan has averaged 20 points per outing by piling up 539 in 27 starts.

TOURNEY RECAP—Clippings from the Bloomington Pantagraph forwarded north reveal Capt. George Wallace of the Dukes was third high scorer in the recent Normal tourney.

George hooped 40 points in three games to Spud Crank's 11 and Billy Sarver's 56. Crank performed with Bloomington's runners-up and Sarver, a dead-eye sophomore, with Chenoa's champions.

TON UNLOADS 210 POINTS—Five foot eight inch Edward Anderson, better known as Ton, is one of the main reasons Ohio's Bulldogs have won 11 of 13 games to date.

Ton, a forward on Coach Charles Brooks' fast breaking offense, has rattled off 210 points for an average of 16 per night. Several times the stubby competitor broke loose with 20 points or better.

With Louis Spahn also hitting effectively, the Bulldogs possess a winning streak of seven since bowing to Mendota, 41-22, Dec. 6. Three of the victories brought Ohio the Little Eight tournament title last week.

Incidentally, Ton can't conjure up memories of how and why he was dubbed with the fascinating nickname. "People began calling me Ton when I was little and it stuck," is his explanation.

Yesterday he was honored by the LaSalle News-Tribune as accolade as "Player of the Week" for his work in the Little Eight tourney. He fired 47 points through the three meet games, helping Ohio cop the championship trophy.

Duke Foo Tomorrow Boasts 13-1 Record

Powerful Hall Township, riding the crest of an impressive 13-1 record, rolls out the "Welcome" to the visiting Redskins tomorrow night.

The Redmen faltered but once to date, drawing a 54-48 reversal at the hands of Streator. Their victory total includes NCIC successes against Sterling, Mendota and Rock Falls.

Dixon has been buffeted by a host of larger schools but revived last week to knock off Geneseo on the Maple Leaf's court, 52-50.

Eckhardt Recovering

Coach Lee Danison is expected to floor a starting combo of Jim Phelps, Stan Fish, Loren Munson, Capt. George Wallace and Steve Christ, although John Eckhardt will see occasional duty as his injured ankle permits. Eckhardt was in for only a moment or so at Geneseo after hurting his gam in the Normal tournament.

On the frosh-soph side, Dixon Coach Wally Coon is contemplating a new lineup consisting of Don Sprout and Jim Mercer at forwards, Jack Nolan at center and Bob Leonard and Floyd Acker at guards. Acker is back on full-time duty status for the first time since suffering arm cuts opposite Clinton, Ia., Dec. 22.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do you live in fear of this happening to you? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). City League Rivals Meet Fourth Time

B & A (2-0) and Knacks (1-1) stage what figures to be a torrid City league session at DHS gym tonight.

Meeting after the Coss Dairy-Reynolds Wire setto (8:15 p. m.), the blood rivals undoubtedly will furnish one of the season's best brands of play.

Led by Bob Marshall, Bob Hater and Russ Mosher, B & A is rated a slight choice over Knacks, boasting Bill Witzleb, Rich Arnold and Lou Bevilacqua.

The sporting goods boys defeated Lee Center and tough Coss in a hot opening towards their aim to repeat as league champs. Knacks lost to Coss but whipped Lee Center.

B & A Leads Series

B & A leads the series with Coach Hank Henry's club, 2-1, on last winter's playoff victory for the championship.

Coach Johnny Mitchell's starters for B & A are expected to number Marshall, Hess, George Acker, Mosher and Bob Cramer. Knacks' anticipated openers are Arnold, Bill Morris, Witzleb, Bevilacqua and Henry.

Loyla Loses in Three Overtimes

Chicago, Jan. 15—(AP)—Western Michigan and Chicago Loyola staged college basketball's most exciting game in years last night at Chicago with Western Michigan finally grabbing a 69-67 victory after three extra periods.

Not since Temple and Penn State waged a five-overtime period struggle some six years ago has a college cage game gone so long.

Loyla was ahead at halftime, 27-25, but Western Michigan tied it at 2-52 at the end of the regular game. It was 57-all at the end of the first five minute overtime and 62-62 when the second extra period ended. Bob Fitch, who oled scored two baskets, finally etched the winning basket for Western Michigan in the third overtime.

FoxHunt Sunday Bu May Be Last

A foxhunt will be held Sunday, the Lee County Sportsmen's association decided last night, but it will be the final unless a better turnout of raiders is noted.

Lack of gunners has hampered previous hunts, according to club officials.

Summa committees for various projects are now in the process of selection and will be announced at a late date. Details of the fox hunt are expected by tomorrow.

Cominform Plan To Smash Marshall Aid Proposals Revealed

British and American Officials Study Details of Russian Scheme

Berlin, Jan. 15—(AP)—British and American officials studied today a reported communist scheme—identified as "Protocol M"—for smashing the Marshall plan and crippling the industrial Ruhr. The anti-communist German press, which published the alleged communist program, denounced it as a proposed "putsch."

Details of the plan, first published by the French-licensed newspaper Der Kurier late yesterday, said the program, brought to light in western Germany, would be coordinated by the communist "information agency" set up by communist leaders of nine nations in Poland last fall—and supported fully by the Soviet Union.

There seemed little inclination in either British or American official quarters to doubt the authenticity of the plan.

"Protocol M," as published by anti-communist newspapers in Berlin today sets out the operational procedure for creating mass strikes in transport and metal industries of western Germany "to break the monopolistic-capitalistic attack of the so-called Marshall plan."

Yesterday's Kurier dispatch quoted the plan as saying that the two most vital rail lines in Germany are the Bremen-Dusseldorf and the Hamburg-Bielefeld lines over which move most of the supplies for the British and American occupation armies and much of the food imports for the Germans.

Winter Called Decisive

The dispatch said the plan described the winter as decisive for the working classes of the world and said all the weapons of the proletariat must be used in the movement, with an aim to cripple the economy of western Germany even though Germans suffer in the process.

The plan, as quoted in Der Kurier, declared that the immediate goal was "the breaking of the monopoly-capitalistic attacks and the so-called Marshall plan."

The dispatch said the German communist party would hold a "key position" under the plan and would be expected to throw its resources "where they can be of the greatest possible assistance."

The German communist party is not a member of the cominform, which has its headquarters in Belgrade.

Under the plan, Der Kurier reported, communists were to win support of the German trade union, particularly the transport and metal workers.

The newspaper said the plan asserted that the British had taken precautions against a breakdown of rail transport by mobilizing trucks, and added that these measures must be nullified.

The dispatch said preparations were to be completed by March 1 for a general strike to be called for the middle of March.

Der Kurier said seven German communists had been named as responsible for the accomplishment of the plan and that arrangements were discussed for communication among the leaders by secret radio transmitters.

Agricultural Fairs Distribute $549,988

The 82 agricultural fairs held in Illinois during 1947 are participating in the distribution of $549,988 being paid as state aid from the agricultural premium fund.

Arnold P. Benson, state director of agriculture, reported today to Gov. Dwight H. Green.

"Never before in the history of these fairs, some of which were organized nearly a century ago, has a greater amount been expended for this purpose," Benson said. "The total premium awards paid by the fairs this year set a new record."

"The total number of the 1947 agricultural fairs has never been exceeded, and another successful season was enjoyed by all of the fair associations. Evidence that the agricultural fair associations are building on a substantial basis is found in the permanent improvements that are being made to their properties. Every indication points to the great interest, in all parts of Illinois, in the educational and entertainment possibilities of properly conducted fairs," Benson said.

Payments made by the state to the various fairs in this area follow:

Bureau county at Princeton, $9,-

047; Sandwich at Sandwich, $5,- 948; Sycamore Farmers club junior fair, Sycamore, $924; Ogle county fair at Oregon, $3,276; and Whiteside county fair at Morrison, $6,- 673.

New power for your BUICK!

Today's Power, Today's Performance, Today's Zip - for Buicks up to Ten Years Old!

Maybe this sounds too good to be true. But it's a fact!

Even if your Buick dates back as far as 1937, you can have a handful of factory-fresh Fireball power—a sleek new power plant that's the same as the engines going into the latest Buick cars.

Yes, it's all new, with the latest Buick engine features you read about—like precision cylinder boring, Oil-Miser rings, Stratoflow cooling and so on.

You can get a new engine like this because engine production is not held back by the shortage of sheet steel which limits complete-car production.

So we're able to put one of these honey into your car and make it young again—give it new power and performance that will get you set for thousands and thousands more carefree miles.

How much does it cost? Not nearly what you'd expect—often less than a comprehensive overhaul. And it's a mighty good investment because it makes your car worth so much more when it comes time to turn it in.

Nice proposition, isn't it? Sure! Worth talking over. Won't you come in and let us give you all the details?

Who Are We, Anyway?

Subject came up at Bill Webster's, the other day, as we were chatting over beer and pretzels. Just who are the folks who make up our town? Where'd they come from?

Well, Doc Hollister's Scotch-English ancestry; Will Dudley's folks were mining stock from Pennsylvania; Skip Powell's family were brewers back in Holland.

Guess our bloodstream's got a bit of every country of the globe—and every section of America. We've still got differences in taste and background—whether they apply to music, history, or beer. Only those

Planes Evacuating Missionaries from Red-Menaced Sites

Chengchow, China, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Transport planes sped the evacuation of missionaries from this Communist-menaced center today. Civil war fighting, however, hid the fate of an unknown number of Americans and others who had sought safety in Laohokow to the southwest.

Four have been killed in recent days, three of them slain by armed Chinese who shouted "Americans must die!" and the fourth was fatally injured by a grenade explosion in Communist-government fighting.

As missionaries and other foreigners gathered at the Chengchow airport one American said the spread of civil warfare and of anti-foreign sentiment had convinced him "It's time for us all to get out of China again." (There are more than 500 in danger spots, mission leaders said).

Chengchow Well Defended

Communists were reported to be within three miles of Chengchow but this rail city 300 miles north of Hankow is strongly defended. Laohokow, 200 miles northwest of Hankow, was at last reports under increasingly heavy Communist pressure and evacuation planes pilots said they could not land there without ground communications.

Laohokow is near the scene of the three missionary murders. In 7. Assaults who Chinese wait- nesses said appeared to be Communist stopped a bus and shot down Miss Martha J. Anderson, Minneapolis, Miss Fischer, Victoria Nordlund, Chicago, and Dr. Alex. F. Edrich, Berg, Helsinki, Finland. Commercial planes are taking out some of the Chengchow evacuees, and the Lutheran mission plane, St. Paul, is beginning the 12-trip job of removing a 100-bed hospital. Equipment as well as the staff of the big southern Baptist hospital here will be flown to Hankow for rail shipment to the safety of Kweilin, 450 miles farther southwest.

The Taft-Hartley law bans the closed shop but permits the union shop if workers vote for its adoption and the employer agrees.

Observations By DeWITT MacKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)
Moscow denials of rumors that Premier Stalin is dead will, one suspects, be received with relief in the capitals of the western democracies against which the Soviet leader is directing the Communist assault.

I quite realize that such a statement seems to contain conflicting thoughts—and I could be wrong in my viewpoint. However, it strikes me that we are dealing with an idea which at first blush seems absurd and yet actually is correct—in short, with a first class paradox. My reasoning is thus:

Could Cause Conflict
The conflict between the Russian bloc and the western powers is in such a dangerous state that a bad misstep could produce another world war. Both sides recognize this and are proceeding with care because neither wants to see a third global upheaval. Thus so long as steady hands remain in control in each camp, the likelihood of a major explosion in the near future isn't great.

Well, now, Stalin's word is supreme and final in Russia. For more than a score of years his policies have dominated both home affairs and foreign relations, including the handling of the Bolshevik world revolution for the spread of communism. His foreign policy, while going the full limit of daring in the interest of Soviet expansion, apparently has been aimed at avoiding major warfare.

Many Danger Points
So if Stalin's control suddenly were removed, and affairs were placed in charge of less dominant and shrewd men, a disastrous situation could arise. For example, an over-ambitious decision in Moscow regarding the fiery Balkan situation might touch off the powder keg—and that's only one of many zones which are on the danger list.

No, I think that right now western diplomacy would prefer to see Stalin at the wheel in Moscow—and this despite the fact that he probably is regarded by opponents as being the most dangerous man ever pitted against our way of life. It is that democracy loves Stalin the more but that it likes the idea of possible hot-headed instability in Moscow the less.

This is a case where dislikes shouldn't be allowed to obscure vision. Despite democracy's dislike of everything Stalin stands for, the fact remains that he is one of the most powerful leaders of all history, and his leadership is based on undoubted genius. Having said this it may be pointed out that powerful leadership and genius aren't necessarily qualities of goodness.

Need Peace Now
Stalin, more than any other individual, would seem to be responsible for the building of Russia's house of communism. He inherited theories but the interpretation and practical application have been his. And apart from his political and economic operations, he is given credit for having been in fact the commander in chief of the Russian forces during the late war. All strategy is said to have passed through his hands.

Of course, there are many observers who believe that when Stalin does give up the helm of state the succeeding regime may be comprised of individuals who may sacrifice discretion to ambition and that thus communism will be weakened. Obviously that's a bit of wishful thinking which is on the knees of the gods.

In any event, the known qualities of Stalin as chief of state would seem to be preferable to uncertainties in these perilous days when the world is just beginning to emerge from the Hitlerian catastrophe.

It is estimated that rats destroy about four per cent of the U. S. grain and cereal crop.

Social Whirl in Moscow Slowing

Moscow, Jan. 15 (AP)—The social whirl in Moscow's foreign diplomatic circles, gay and merry through many previous seasons, has slowed down this year to the tempo of a draggy waltz.

The main reason is the Soviet monetary and merchandising changes instituted in mid-December. Because of these, diplomats planning parties have less Russian money to buy things and more trouble shopping for them.

Before, they could get 12 rubles for one dollar. Now the official rate of exchange is eight rubles to the dollar. Before they had their own diplomatic store. Now they must shop in regular stores.

Invitations have dropped off. Lots of people who because of personal charm, beauty, connections or inside knowledge, used to get invited out now are eating their own food for a change.

Diplomats who used to serve a lot of caviar are not buying much nowadays. Caviar costs just as much as it did before, but rubles to buy it costs more.

Embassies and legations have not yet reduced personnel but there is talk that they may and some are almost sure to do so.

The United States embassy is reported to have decided, however, to keep its personnel at current strength and foot the bill, whatever it comes to.

Boy Scout News

Boy Scout troop No. 58, sponsored by the Lincoln school P.T.A., consisting of 16 boys with their parents, and Scout officials, enjoyed an evening of entertainment at the Lincoln school last evening. A scramble supper was enjoyed to start the evening's festivities. Leon Kehr, Scout executive of activities in this area, likened Scout movement to a big show in which the Boy Scouts were the actors. Ken Abbott, former Scoutmaster, spoke of value of the different grades in Scouting which eventually lead to the rank of Eagle Scout. Robert Steinfert, the troop's Scoutmaster, spoke on the value of parental cooperation in helping to maintain a successful troop. After this section of the program those present adjourned to the gymnasium where a play written and directed by Assistant Scoutmaster Gordon

Dillon Farmer Shot While Seated in His Kitchen Tuesday Eve

Pekin, Ill., Jan. 15 (AP)—A 61-year-old Dillon, Ill., farmer was in critical condition today as the result of shotgun wounds suffered Tuesday night when an unidentified assailant fired two blasts at him through the windows of his home.

The farmer, George Coorts, is in a Pekin hospital with wounds in the abdomen and groin. Sheriff Hurst said he was able to piece together this account from Mrs. Coorts, who was in the house at the time of the shooting but was unharmed.

The assailant crept up to the house, suddenly smashed a shotgun barrel through a kitchen window and pulled the trigger. The pellets struck Coorts, who staggered into a front room. There another window was smashed and another blast fired at the farmer. The gunman then fled.

The sheriff said he had not been able to identify the attacker or provide any motive for the shooting.

The Coorts farm is near Dillon, which is 10 miles southeast of Pekin.

Seattle, Jan. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Bertha Emminger, 69, who was trapped for six days and nights with one foot wedged under a piano, died yesterday.

She was found in her home by neighbors last Thursday and never recovered sufficient strength to tell how she became trapped. She lived alone.

Dixonite to Attend Library Conference

Mrs. John P. Devine, Dixon public library trustee, will attend a meeting for representatives of the Illinois state library, Illinois Library association, public and special libraries, library schools and the Veterans Administration in Springfield Friday.

The meeting is being called to discuss plans for increasing library personnel in Illinois.

Miss Ruth Gregory, Waukegan, president of the library association, will be in charge of the one-day conference, which opens at 9 a. m. in the Hotel Abraham Lincoln.

Survivors have shown that approximately 1,000 more libraries are needed in Illinois, and emphasis will be placed on recruiting library personnel among young people at workshops and regional meetings next spring.

Such a series of meetings has been conducted for the past 30 years by the Illinois state library.

"Housecleaning" Tiff is Cause of Wife's Death

Georgetown, Mass., Jan. 15 (AP)—An 88-year-old retired real estate dealer was held for mental observation today in what state police Lt. Raymond Foley described as the "housecleaning argument" slaying of his 77-year-old wife.

Judge Daniel L. Cavan ordered Fred R. Bangs held without bail on a murder charge in Haverhill district court yesterday and continued the case for a week. He directed the man be subjected to mental tests.

Foley quoted Bangs as saying in a formal statement that he beat his wife to death with the butt of a shotgun when she threatened him with the weapon after demanding he help her sweep the floor.

New 1948 Ford Trucks On Display Tomorrow

A new line of Ford trucks will be shown in Dixon for the first time tomorrow at a special display and open house held by Evar Swanson Co.

The streamlined models, new from the wheels up, represent the first post-war products of Ford, according to Evar Swanson.

He said that the new trucks are notable for an unprecedented range of models and capacities as well as many engineering changes.

Two new series, F-7 and F-8, are the largest ever manufactured by Ford. They have maximum gross vehicle weights of 19,000 and 21,500 pounds, respectively. Another new series is the six-cylinder, cab-over-engine model.

Three new power plants are available for the new trucks—a 226 cubic inch 95-horsepower six-cylinder engine, a 239 cubic inch 100-horsepower V-8, and a 337 cubic inch 145-horsepower V-8.

The new trucks are attractively styled without losing ruggedness for good performance and long life.

Driver comfort is one of the first considerations in the new trucks. Advanced cab design provides living room comfort with more space and better ventilation.

One of these new models will be on display Friday, Saturday and Sunday forenoon.

COLDS
This is a good season of the year to talk about respiratory infections. Colds are by all odds the most common disease in this group, so it is quite fitting to begin the discussion with them. More time is lost in industry and in schools from colds than from all other diseases combined. We are prone to talk excitedly about industrial accidents as indeed we should, but the fact remains that colds cause about twenty times as much loss in working hours as is caused by accidents.
It is surprising to find that despite their prevalence, colds have never been medically interesting to most physicians. In the presence of a cold, the average doctor is as disgruntled as the ordinary patient, and he has no treatment of this ailment that could be pointed to with pride. Despite centuries of devastation, bacteria is the only sound advice to give the long-suffering patient with a cold. He thus recovers more quickly and by remaining isolated, protects others from his illness.
Most persons regard colds as a big nuisance, although everyone is familiar with the serious sequelae that may develop. Colds are generally ignored. This has been characteristic not only of the lay public, but of the medical profession as well. Until the last couple of years, very little research on colds has been done, although millions of dollars went into the study of other diseases. It is good news to know that the United States Public Health Service is engaged in a determined investigation of colds, and important results can be expected.
Already it has been announced that Dr. Norman Topping and his group at the National Institute of Health have isolated a virus that causes colds. It appears that this is perhaps only one of the viruses that may ultimately be involved. There may turn out to be several different viruses for the different types of colds. In any case, it is most welcome news that start has been made.
Again, it must be repeated, there is no known vaccine which is accepted by medical authorities as being effective against the common cold despite the presence of a number of so-called cold vaccines on the market. We can have high hopes, however, that as more information is learned about the causes of colds, we will come continually closer to the discovery of some effective immunizing measure.

Gary claimed he turned down only a couple of interviews last year, "because the story ideas were so silly."

The actor returned from the Idaho resort for a couple of days, relations on "Good Sam," and wouldn't you know it, the scenes are being taken in man-made Hollywood snow. He's acting in a new ending for the picture, because, says Director Leo McCarey, the original was too depressing.

"It was raining the wrong megaphone," explained Leo.

Sidelight: McCarey was complimenting his assistant, former USC footballer Jesse Hibbs, on his efficiency in getting all the actors and workers back together for the retakes.

"It was easy," said Hibbs. "Nobody's working."

Policeman's Widow is Ordered Acquitted of Forgery Accusations
St. Louis, Jan. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Genevieve O'Leary, widow of Police Sgt. Joseph E. O'Leary, was freed of a fourth degree forgery charge on a directed verdict of acquittal in circuit court yesterday.

The charge was the outgrowth of an inquiry into the closing of the Northwestern Loan & Investment company and disclosure that Sergeant O'Leary had obtained $60,000 in loans for 50 non-existent persons over an eight year period.

Mrs. O'Leary was charged specifically with giving a forged promissory note for $400 to the loan company, but the court in directing the acquittal, upheld a defense contention that the state failed to show she ever had possession of the note.

She testified she acted as a messenger for her husband during a fatal illness, but denied making any transactions after learning the nature of O'Leary's loan deals.

Production Lag Gives Police Horses Time

Chicago, Jan. 15 (AP) — Old Sandy will be bossing traffic at busy State and Madison streets for another month or two, and sentimental Chicagoans are glad. Sandy, and 40 other mounted police horses, were expected by this time to be replaced by new-fangled three-wheeled motorcycles. However, of 82 cycles on order, only two have been delivered. When the temporary reprieve ends, Sandy and his mates will be retired to the Bridewell farm, if previous practice is followed.

MAY FREE 20 JAPANESE Tokyo, Jan. 15 (AP) — Dismissal of war crimes charges against 20 Japanese including five ministers in the Tojo cabinet has been recommended by chief prosecutor Joseph B. Keenan, it was learned authoritatively today. Keenan declined comment on the report.

RUSSIAN PRESSURE BLAMED Vienna, Jan. 15 (AP) — A member of the Romanian royal household, enroute to Switzerland to join ex-king Mihai said here today Mihai's abdication Dec. 30 was a "direct result of Russian pressure on the Romanian government to recognize the regime of General Markos (Vafllades) in Greece."

U.S. Motor Vehicle registration which was 34,472,145 in 1941 was an estimated 57,164,405 in 1947.

Doctors Concerned Over Gandhi Today

New Delhi, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi, in the third day of his fast for communal peace in India, was too weak to attend his usual prayer meeting, and his doctors expressed concern over his loss of weight.

Gandhi last night exhibited deep worry over a new massacre in Muslim Pakistan.

The Indian government said last night Pathan tribesmen in Pakistan's west Punjab ambushed a refugee train Tuesday and only 750 of the 2,400 non-Muslim passengers were known to have survived the attack.

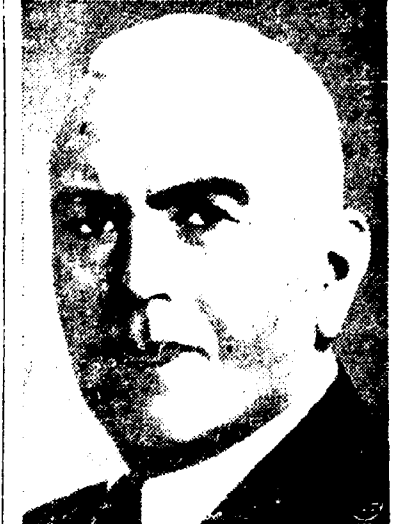

Later Gandhi, holding his nightly prayer meeting, referred to this report and told followers, "it distresses me."

The 78-year-old Hindu spiritual leader began his fast at 11 a. m. Tuesday. His doctors, reporting him through the first 31 hours "without any complication," warned yesterday that "every day passed without food increases both the immediate and future danger" to his life.

Close associates said this was Gandhi's 15th fast since he first employed the strategy when he was a young lawyer protesting racial discrimination in South Africa.
